Every good paragraph needs an introduction, a body, and a conclusion. The introduction tells a reader what the paragraph is about. Start your paragraph by filling in the blanks in this sentence:

The chart and the map both tell about _____.

The body of the paragraph gives details about that topic sentence.

In the chart, you learn _____.

Every year, there were (more/less) people in America.

The map is different. It shows _____.

Most people lived in the (South/Northeast/West).

Before you finish, you need to write a conclusion. One way to do this is say what you think about the topic.

I think it is easier to read the _____ because _____.

Next, put those sentences together to write a paragraph. Remember to indent the paragraph – push the first line over a few spaces. Every sentence starts with a capital letter and ends with a period. You may add more sentences if you like. If you do, make sure they help explain the topic sentence.

Turn it in to your teacher when you are finished.
